The portable protection wall

In the presence of the pandemic Covid-19, companies are facing unprecedented challenges. One of the greatest challenges is maintaining the safety of employees and customers. In order to have a safer environment, a distance of 1.5 m (at least) needs to be ensured at all times.

With modu-PROTECT, we offer an effective and flexible solution that separates people from each other, especially when the minimum distance cannot be maintained. Which, therefore, significantly reduces the risk of infection from viruses.

Wherever people are close to each other, modu-PROTECT can reduce the risk of infection. The movable, rolling protection walls can be arranged individually and are flexible to adapt to any spatial situation or application.

Example: open offices

Organizing crowds and separating them from each other can be a huge challenge, especially when it needs to be done on a daily basis. Queues are a familiar example that illustrates this problem:

Example: bank registers

Example: supermarket cash registers

All elements are provided with casters so they can be easily moved to the desired location. Afterwards, casters can be locked to prevent undesired shifting.

For longer rows of elements, additional stability can be achieved through linking the individual elements together.

Even without us moving, there is a risk of infection from flying aerosol droplets. modu-PROTECT can play an important role in reducing this risk, especially in closed rooms.

Example: waiting room

Example: seminar room / classroom

Example: selling counter
